Hi Teri...I did some research into the TSCA PCB rule changes since March 1997 and found that cleanup standards were modified in the "Mega Rule", effective on August 28, 1998. This would explain the differences between the clean up steps conducted by the Army in 1997 and the current standards. Page 4-3 in the attachment which provides a summary of these pertinent amendments.

Call or email if there are questions.

Cheryl,

I have attached the zip file with the .zzz file extension. In case this doesn't work, you can also access the files at: <http://www.yousendit.com/download/UVJqaXRFdVV0TWxWeHNUQw>

The yousendit link is only valid for 7 days, so you should copy the files from the site to your computer or server.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
Teri Peterson, CHMM

Hi Teri...would you please resend the Army Reports zip file with a different extension (army reports.zip.zzz). Our email security removes zip files on any incoming attachments. When you send with a different extension, I will then be able to save it as a zip file and open it that way. Thanks.

Cheryl,

Per our discussion earlier I am forwarding the two reports we have related to the Army cleanup of PCBs at building 659.

I will discuss next steps with Lucy and with Burly Seal and we will get a revised Work Plan Amendment 2 over to you.

Sincerely,
